Vice Chancellor/President Search American University of Nigeria

The Board of Trustees of American University of Nigeria (AUN) announces an international search for an accomplished academic leader to serve as the University's next Vice Chancellor/President. The University was developed in consultation with American University in Washington, DC, and in response to the demand for high quality, American-style education in Nigeria. Chartered in 2004 and located in Yola, Adamawa State, the University is West Africa's first private, not-for-profit American-style university. Western in character but distinctively Nigerian, AUN aspires to international recognition for academic excellence, with an innovative development focus. With 1,020 students and 81 faculty members, AUN is poised for significant enrollment growth and academic distinction. It is anticipated that the new Vice Chancellor/President will assume office by January 2023 or soon thereafter.

The Vice Chancellor/President serves as the University's Chief Executive Officer, providing vibrant and creative leadership in the areas of vision and planning, budget and management, and external resource development. The Vice Chancellor/President reports directly to the Governing Council and has a broad charter within that office's usual responsibilities. In addition, the Vice Chancellor/President works closely with the Executive Council (Vice Chancellor/President's Cabinet), which consists of a Provost, a Vice President for Administration/Registrar, a Vice President for Finance/Bursar, and a Dean for Campus Life and Student Affairs. Because AUN was established to be an American-style comprehensive university, the University seeks a Vice Chancellor/President who has worked extensively within an American college/university setting. To learn more about the opportunities and challenges for the next Vice Chancellor/President as well as desired skills, qualifications, and experiences, please click here.
